

Dear Google STEP Internship Recruiter,

I am eager to apply for the Google Student Training in Engineering Program (STEP) internship from May to August 2020. I was informed by my peers that every summer, Google provides an internship for newly undergraduate students. After learning this, I went on the Google Careers website and came across the internship my peers were talking about. I wish to take part in the Google STEP internship and hope that I am qualified to be allowed in.

As a first-year undergraduate student, majoring in computer engineering, I have obtained experience in programming from my Intermediate Computer Program class where I learned C++. Additionally, prior to entering university, I learned some Python, Java, and JavaScript from external sources like Google's Grasshopper App, Mimo, and SoloLearn during my high school years up to now. I plan to learn more computer languages as I go because I want to bridge the gap between my academic and practical professional experience and I have a desire to tackle some of technology's many challenges to leave an impact on our technological world.

I can ensure that my experiences so far can be further improved by attending the STEP internship. If you wish to contact me, my contact information is below. Thank you for your time and I look forward to receiving a response.

Sincerely,

Zafrul Islam
